

(EaGL) Theory of Computation Workshop Code-of-Conduct

Eastern Great Lakes (EaGL) Theory of Computation Workshop is committed to providing a harassment-free environment for all participants. We have zero tolerance for any form of harassment, including sexual harassment, discrimination, or offensive behavior.

Prohibited behavior includes offensive comments, sexual images, intimidation, stalking, disruption, unwelcome physical contact, and encouraging such behavior.

If you experience or witness a violation, please report it promptly to Noah Stephens-Davidowitz at noahsd@gmail.com. All reports will be treated confidentially and thoroughly investigated.

Violations will result in appropriate actions, including warnings, expulsion from the conference, or legal measures.

The policy will be shared with participants before the conference and available during the event. Find the complete policy at [ConferenceWebsite/URL].

By attending EaGL, you agree to abide by this policy and contribute to a safe and inclusive environment for all.

Point of contact:

Name: Noah Stephens-Davidowitz

Email: noahsd@gmail.com